

Japanese folding Razor saw

The Razorsaw features a cast aluminium handle fitted with an EVA non-slip rubber grip, for both safety and comfort. The blade is 250mm long and locks positively when opened, when not in use folds neatly into the handle. Great performance for both speed and finish. Each tooth has three hardened cutting edges leaving a cleanly cut surface, lessening the risk of infection entering the tree when pruning. Designed for cross cutting, it makes no difference to the saw whether the timber is green or seasoned. The teeth become coarser nearer the tip, 2.7mm pitch at the handle widening to 3.6mm. This makes starting a cut much easier, and progress much quicker. This saw certainly has a place in the tool box of joiners, carpenters, tree surgeons, roofers, builders and lots more. Blades are easily replaceable.
